

TSHELO
managing funds efficiently

A revolutionary app

Tshelo is designed to simplify how communities in Botswana manage funds for social events such as funerals, weddings, and parties. By providing a platform for tracking contributions and expenditures, this app not only ensures transparency, but also enhances financial management among users, fostering a sense of trust and cohesion within the community.

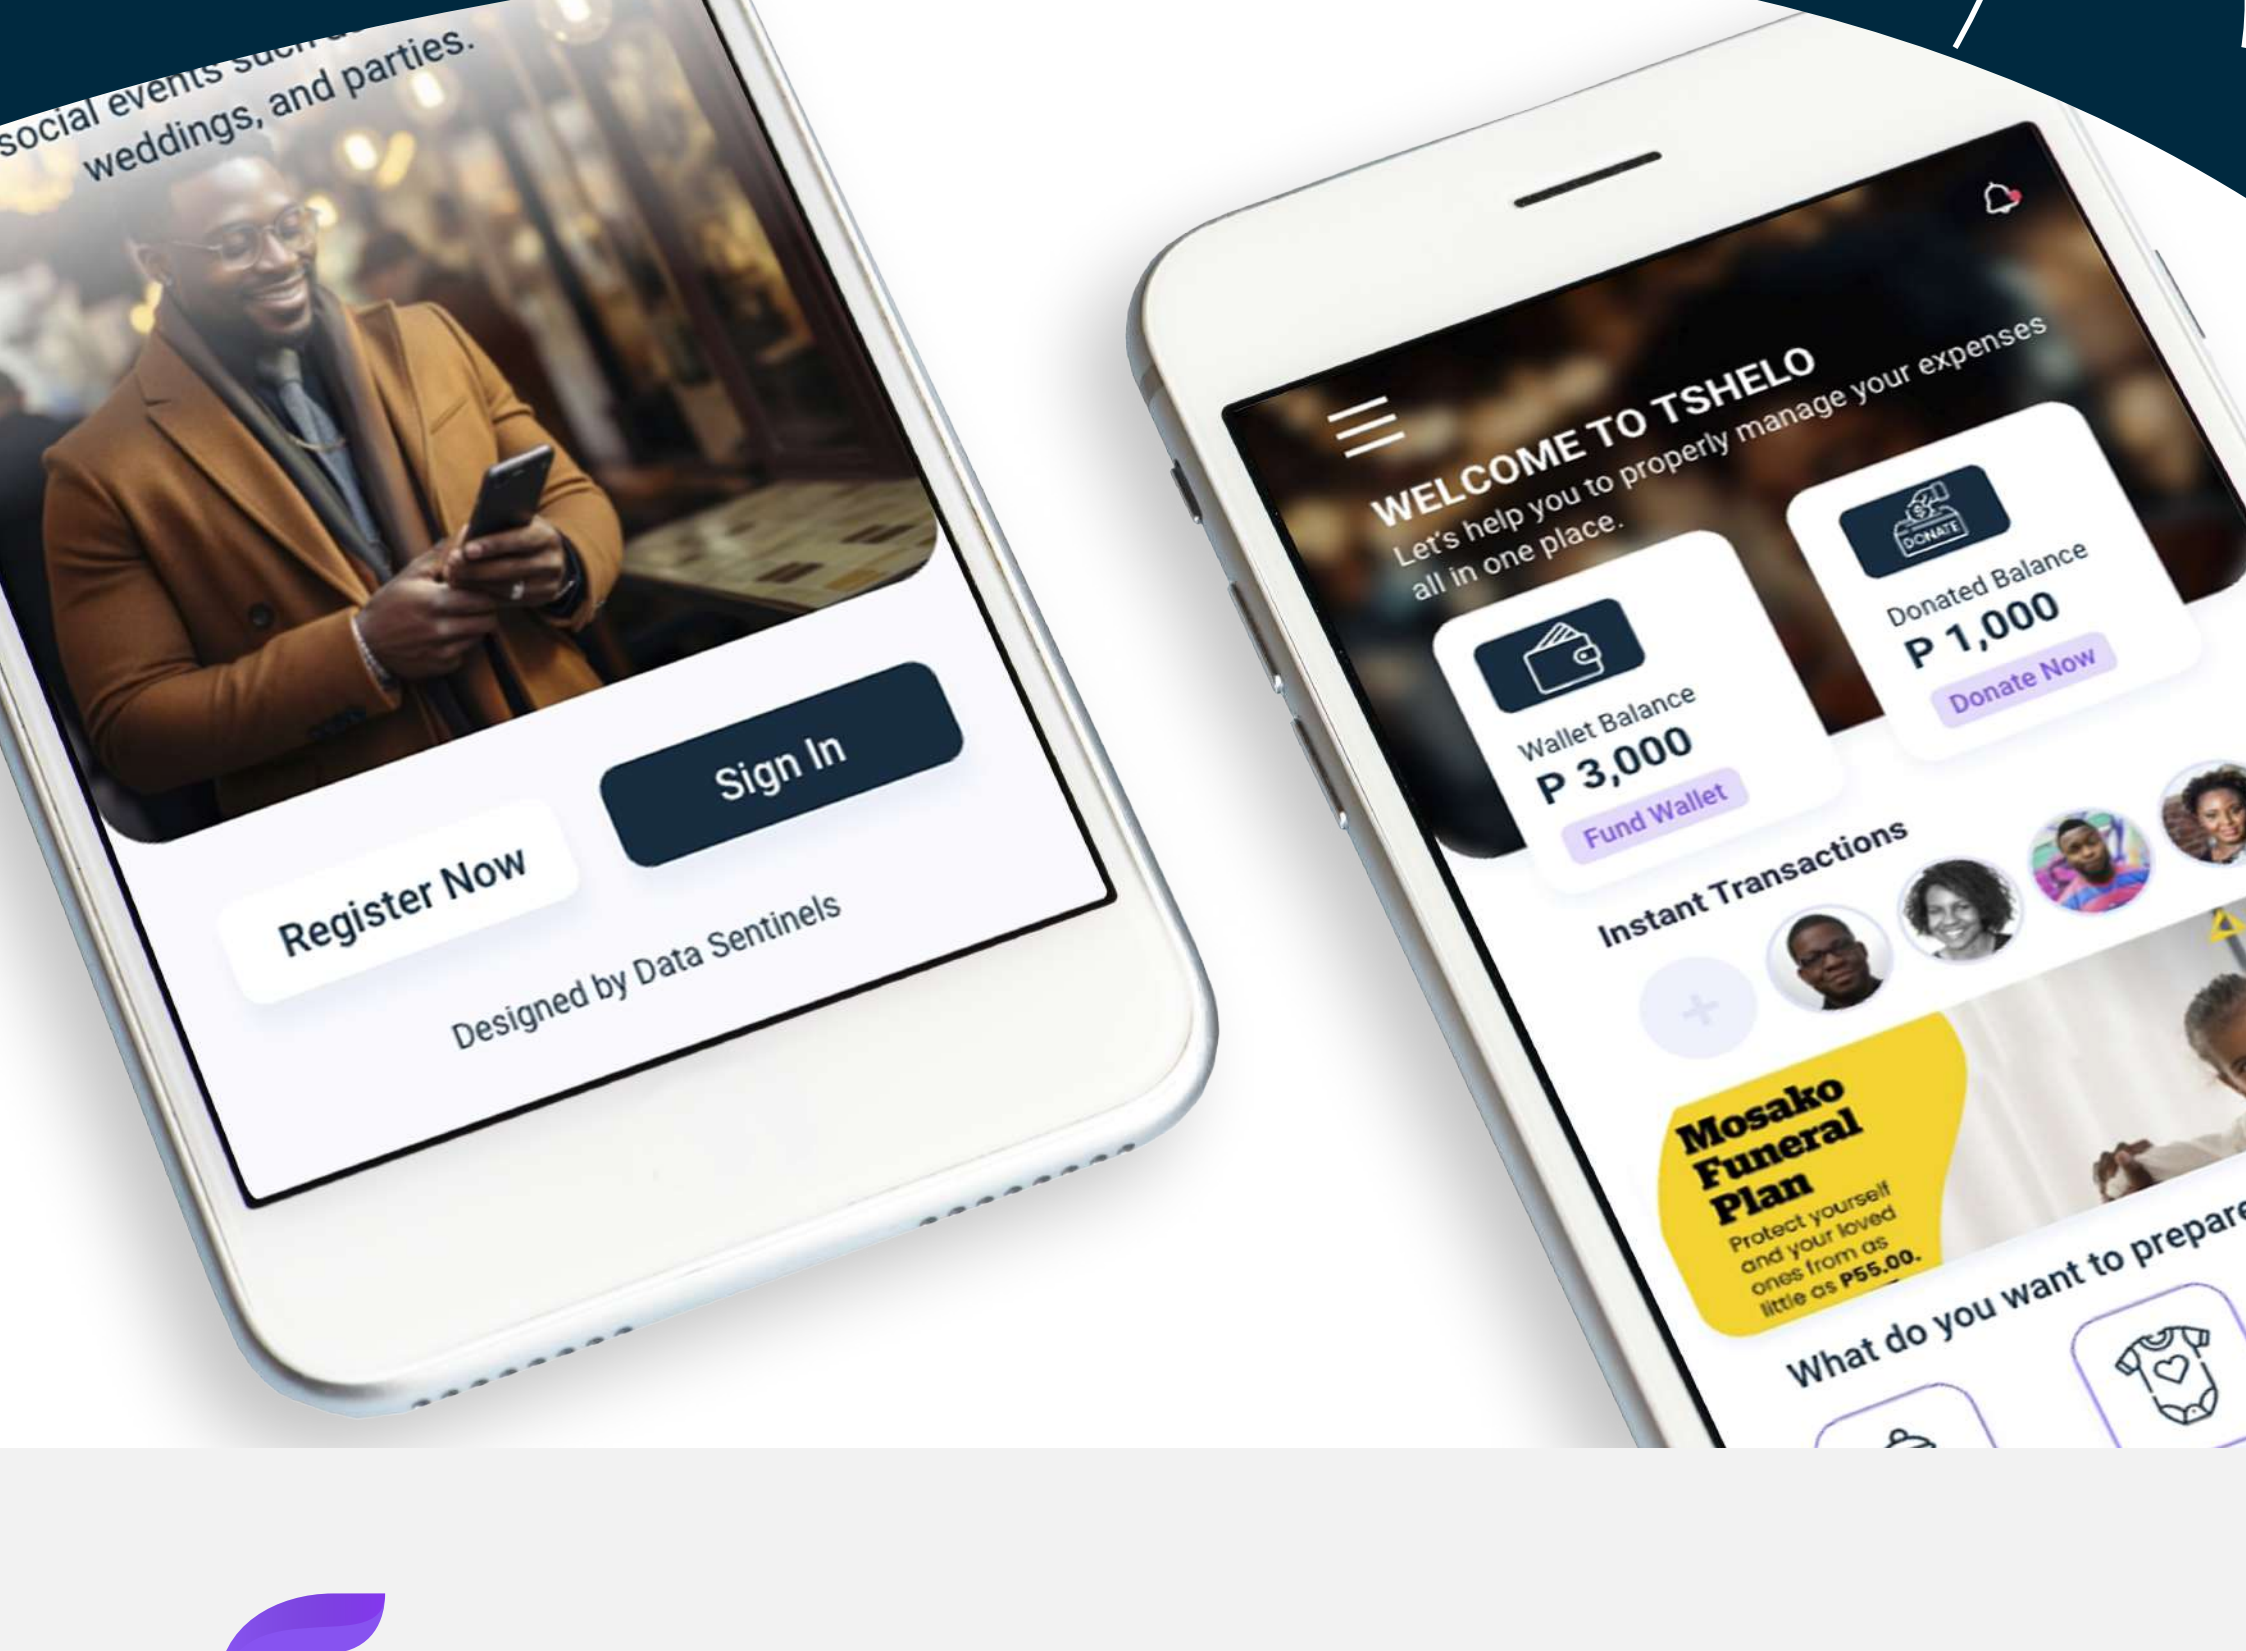

The Problem

In Botswana, it is common for friends and family to contribute financially to communal events, for example, funerals. However, managing these funds can be cumbersome and opaque, leading to potential mismanagement and mistrust. The need for a transparent, efficient system is evident.

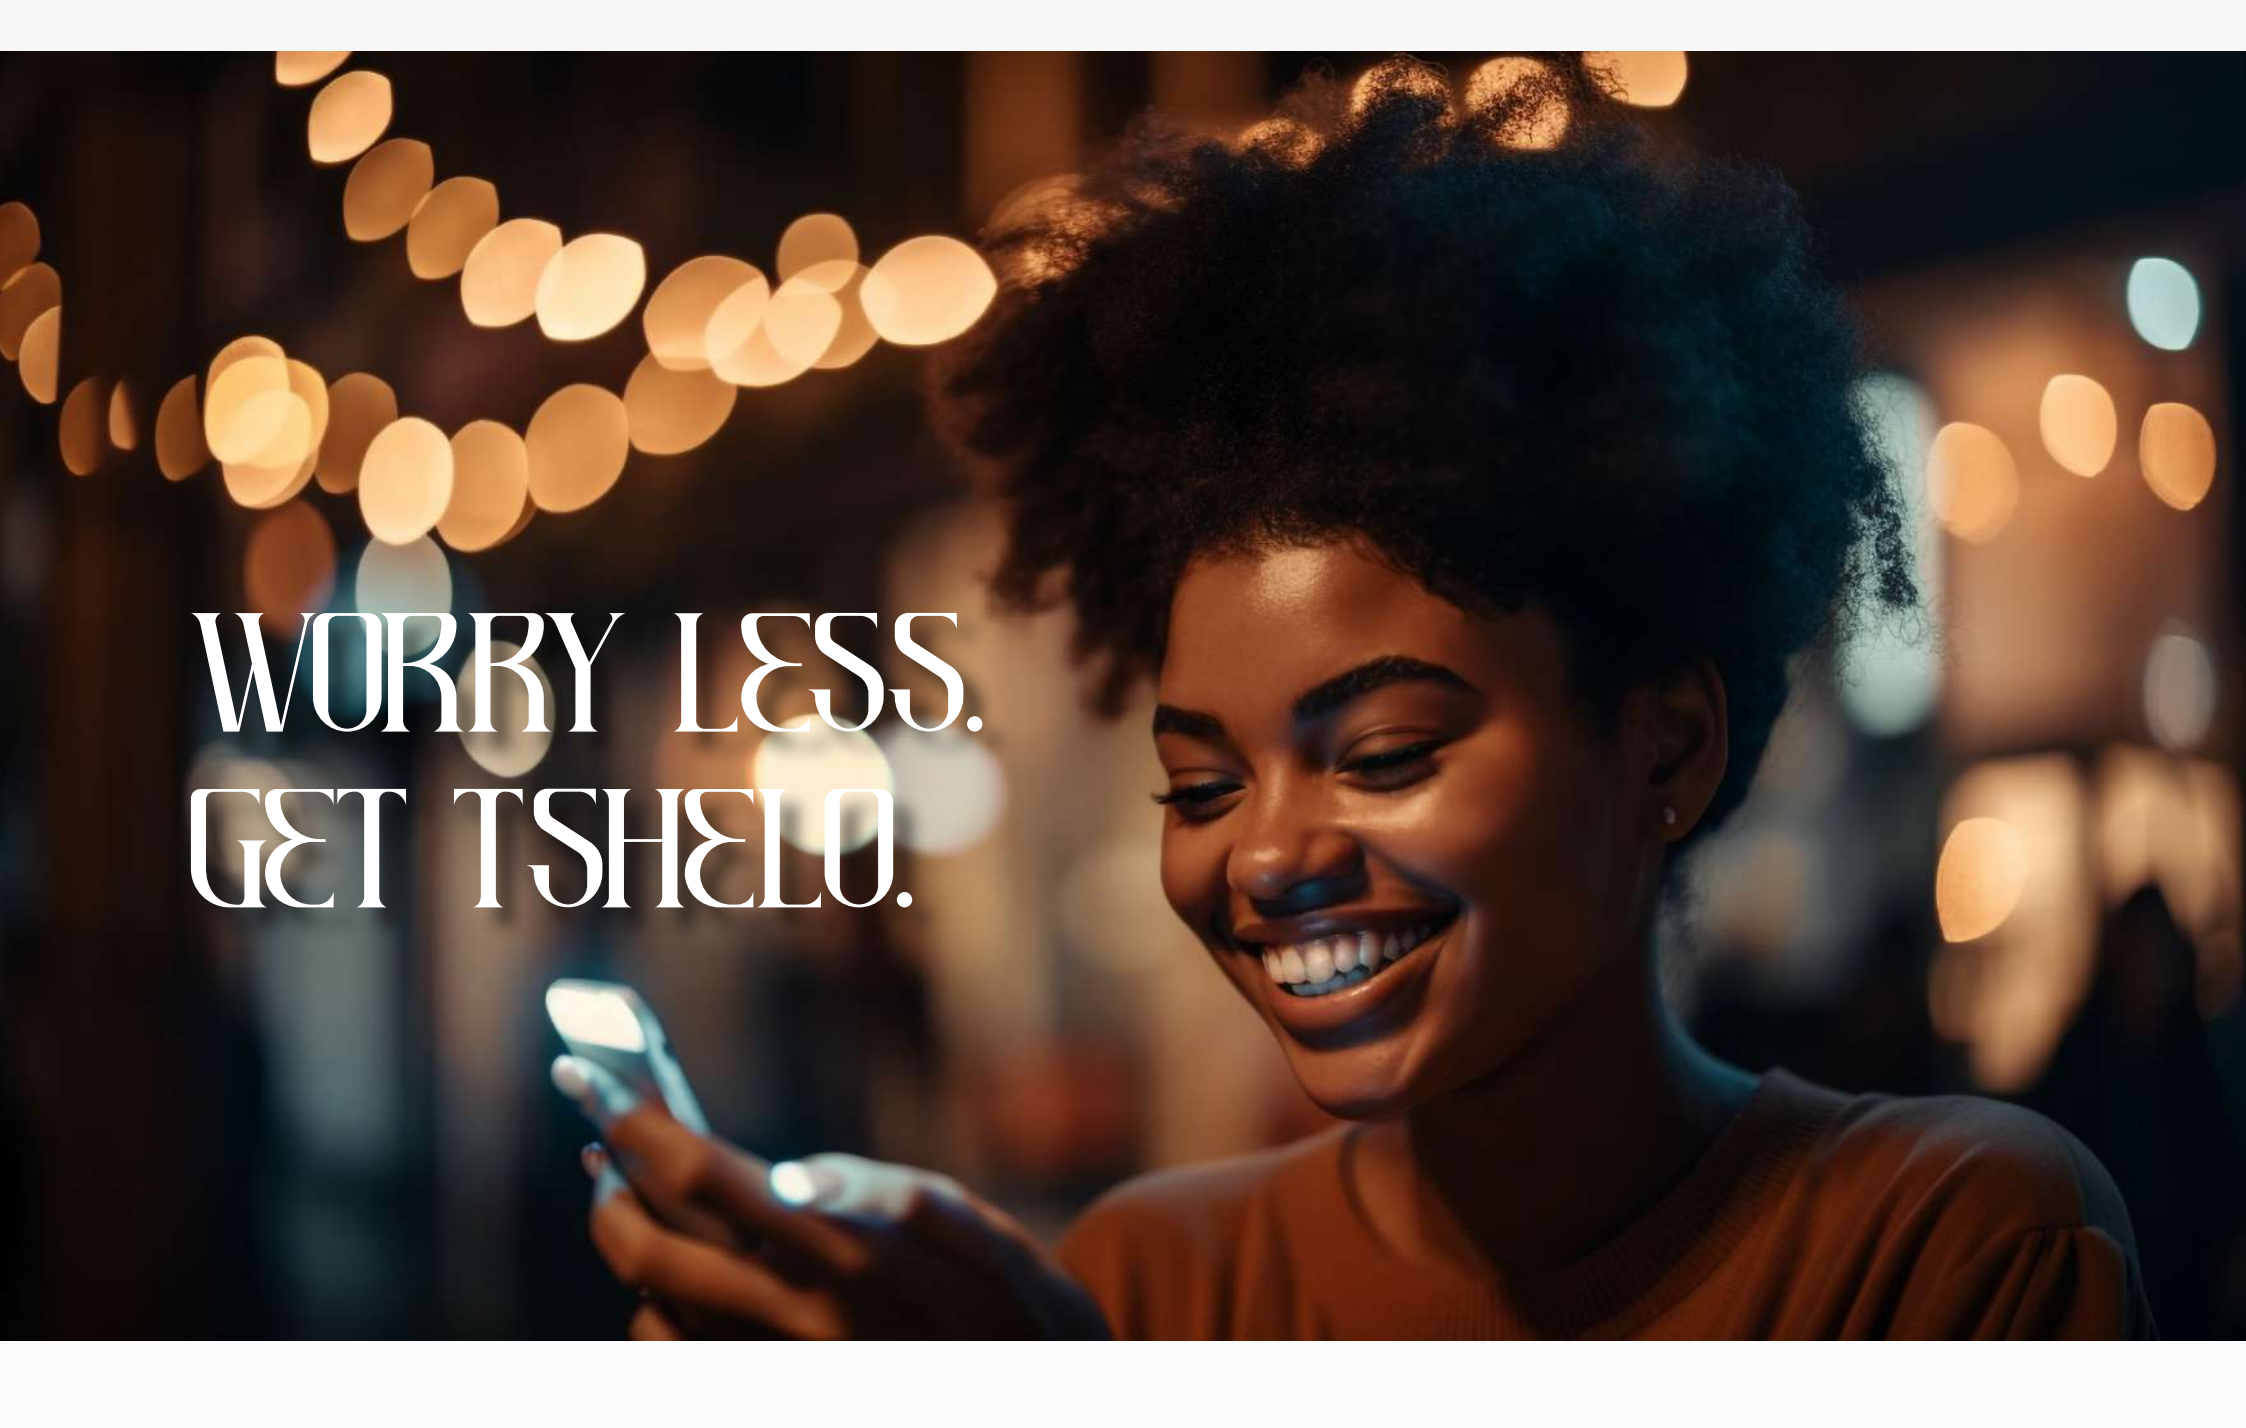

The Solution

- Track monetary contributions from multiple individuals.
- Facilitate the final transfer of remaining funds to a designated mobile money account after the event.
- Manage expenditures by uploading receipts directly to the app.
- Automatically adjust the fund balance as expenses are recorded.

UNIQUE FEATURES

- REGIONAL PRICING SUGGESTIONS
AI-driven analytics to suggest typical expenditure for similar events in different regions (e.g., Francistown vs. Gaborone), helping users budget more effectively.
- RECEIPT RECOGNITION
AI to scan and categorize receipt information, reducing manual entry errors.
- EVENT-SPECIFIC FINANCIAL TEMPLATES
Customizable templates that reflect common expense categories for different types of events.
- REAL-TIME NOTIFICATIONS
Alerts for new contributions and expenditures to keep all stakeholders informed.
- PRIVACY CONTROLS
Secure log-ins and customizable privacy settings to control who can view or manage the fund.
